To Mr. Braddleford, express messenger from Rolla, we are indebted for advices from Spring-field up to Monday evening, at which time the stage proprietor, Burden, left for Rolla.

General Lyon with his forces had fallen back on Springfield, and was preparing for a vigorous defence. He reached Springfield on Monday morning. The rebels were advancing on the latter place by four different roads, and their advance was ascertained to be from ten to fifteen miles distant. Three of the routes remembered by our informant, on which the enemy were moving, were the Neosho, Carthage, and the Overland roads. General Lyon called in two thousand five hundred Home Guards from the neighborhood. Further than this addition to his force, no other reinforcements seemed to be near.

It was expected that the enemy were resolved on an immediate attack from the fact that their commissariat was in a miserable condition, the rebels depending on forced contributions for temporary supplies. They live from "hand to mouth," and necessity obliges them, after running over the country and destroying all within their reach, to fight or starve.

It was generally remarked in Springfield that Gen. Lyon was perfectly confident of success, in the event of an attack, but some entertained apprehensions. Alarming reports of an advance of the rebels, under Pillow and Thompson, in strong force, were circulated. The troops slept on their arms during the night in Momentary expectation of an attack. The greatest panic prevailed amongst the citizens and very many families were moved over during the night to the Illinois shore.

Reports which have come in to-day, and which seem to be reliable, say that the rebel forces under Thompson are encamped at Bloomington, Mo., some twenty-rive miles from Cairo, and over forty from this town. There are no bodies in force nearer than that, it is said. However, vigilance is not relaxed. Beastworks are being rapidly thrown up aroused the camps of Cols. Marsh and Smith. THE KNIGHTS OF THE GOLDEN CIRCLE -We have every reason to believe that the blow the Golden Circle in publishing their Rituals, signs, passwords, &c., was a death-blow. The Order may linger on for a time, but the rembeen republished everywhere except in the South the papers of that section not having the virtue or the courage to aid in revealing the character of an order devoted to disunion, no matter how shameful and wicked its prin-

Three or four of the secession newspapers evidently grateful to the Knights of the Golden Circle for their active and important political aid, have spoken of our exposition as "bogus." None of them, audacious as they are, have ventured to assert directly that our exposition was not genuine and strictly correct, for they know that it was, and they furthermore know that they could not assert the contrary without causing themselves to be regarded by the universal public as unscrupulous falsifiers. If we deemed it at all necessary for the accomplishment of an important purpose to prove the genuineness and truth of what we published, we could readily do so, but it is not necessary, for no one has or can have an honest doubt upon the subject. How we obtained the secrets of the Order we shall never state; it is enough to say that we received them in such a way that we had a right to give them to the world.

The card that Mr. Ricketts published in the city papers two or three days after the appearance of our exposition was of itself not only evidence but proof of the truth of our publication. Knights of the Golden Circle in the city were insidiously or openly accusing each other of having betraved the secrets of the order to us, and Mr. Ricketts, being one of the accused, said in his card that he was no guilty, and that his accusers were liars and scoundrels. If what we gave to the public had not been the real secrets and mysteries of the organization, there would have been no Knights as to who was the traitor. All of our friends, and Mr. Ricketts would have felt himself under no necessity of denying imputations and stigmatizing their authors as slanderers and villains.

The number of Knights of the Third Degree in this city, and, we presume, in most other cities, is very small in comparison with In Louisville at the present time, there are but thirteen members, whose names, if we may G. Knights again. LIMITED MONARCHY-STRONG CENTRAL GOVERNMENT.-The Union men of Kentucky for months past have warned the people against the abandonment of a Government in which the rights of the people are now and have always been most fully guarded and protected. They have boldly charged upon the leaders of he secession movement in the Cotton States the purpose of subverting the fundamenta principles of free institutions which underlie the system of government founded by our fathers, and the establishment in their stead of a strong Central Government bordering upon limited monarchy. The secessionists of Kentucky have denied that any such purpose was entertained by any respectable number of persons in the seceding States. The public well know, that, when this denial was given, the Kentucky secessionists had no more information upon the subject than the Union men had They denied the charge, simply because it uited their purposes to do so. And they will deny any and everything which tends in any even the slightest degree to expose the infernal wickedness of secession and treason. Secession itself is an unmitigated cheat, and hence its chief followers have very little regard for

Our readers are already familiar with the xposition which Russell, the correspondent of he London Times, has given of the sentiments of the "gentlemen" of South Carolina. Where ever he went in that State he discovered very general desire amongst the cotton and rice planters to substitute a monarchy in place of our republican government.
